The Bunni Experiment Brief

With the Bunni Experiment, we will be testing how empathy and memories can be affected by outside sources. We will be putting the subject(s) in our different experiment rooms where they will be psychologically convinced that they are reliving a memory. We will be doing a number of things to try to trick the brain into thinking they are reliving the past such as but not limited to: Hypnosis, Mind Control via Invasive BCI, Conditioning, Using Dopamine to cause Psychosis, etc.

Subject(s):

Although the list is ongoing, here are the subjects that have signed their contract and have begun their experiment with us:

Why we are doing this

We are doing this to better humanity. We are finding breaches in the brain so we can protect others from being psychologically manipulated. We at Sandsnake Corporations are only here to serve what we believe in.

Sandsnake Corporations are not responsible for any mental/psychological harm done to any participant. Each participant thoroughly read their contract and are willingly participating in this experiment.
